

The Federal Communications Commission

Dear The Federal Communications Commission,

As a student I need a cellphone and can only afford my Tracfone---so please don't change things so that I can continue to afford it. I do not want to pay more for my telephone service! I beg you to reject a flat fee proposal that would change how contributions are made to the Universal Service Fund.

Under the flat fee proposal you are considering, people who make few long distance calls would pay the same as people or businesses that make many calls. In other words, low-volume and primarily residential customers would bear the same universal service fund burden as a high-volume residential or business customers. This is unfair since I can only afford my limited time Tracfone and use it for emergencies.

Again, I use my wireless phone for safety, security and convenience. I don't want to lose these benefits so that big businesses can pay less than their fair share. I urge you to reject the proposal to move the USF collection system to a flat-fee. Let big business pay their fair share and leave us little, regular people alone.

Keep the USF Fair!

Sincerely,

Steve Krestynick
